

Player Evaluation Report

"Work Hard. Be Memorable."

A J Hellman | Northwest Travelers 12U White | September 4, 2026

Strengths

- Excellent hand-eye coordination
- Strong and accurate contact on the baseball
- Naturally athletic frame carried over from football
- Great coachable attitude with genuine curiosity to learn

Areas to Improve

- Loading into the knee instead of the hip, causing the hips to drift back and the knee to straighten and pop up during the swing
- Overly tall posture and a steep, choppy bat path that results in mostly hard ground balls rather than line drives
- Improving posture, with the chest staying forward over the plate, is the key focus

Recommended Drills

- Forty-five-degree angled tee drill, feet set toward third base, loading into the back hip and driving the ball up the middle to right-center
- Top-hand-only isolation drill working a low line drive to second base
- Low-and-outside tee drill to encourage better posture and opposite-field contact
- Bat-on-shoulders hinge drill to train a forward, hinged posture through the swing

Note from Coach Broc

A J has a lot to be excited about. His hand-eye coordination and natural hitting ability stand out, and once his posture and swing angle click into place, his potential is very real. The areas noted above are very workable, and with consistent reps on the recommended drills, he can make meaningful progress quickly. Thank you to the Hellman family for trusting LCB Training with A J's development -- and to his coaches for the support around him. We would love to keep training together and help him take the next step. Please reach out anytime.

Between sessions, A J can keep developing with The Next Level Playbook and the full LCB Training online platform -- video drills, workout programs, and coaching tools built to support his progress.
