

Player Evaluation Report

"Work Hard. Be Memorable."

Sam Wagner | Northwest Travelers 12U White | September 9, 2026

Strengths

- Natural power with a strong ability to stay through the ball and drive it the other way
- Stable, strong lower half that turns well on the backside without hip drift
- Studious, game-savvy approach with a strong understanding of his own swing and mechanics

Areas to Improve

- Wrapped bat -- knob points toward the umpire instead of the catcher's feet, creating a long swing path
- Stance and upper half are very closed off, with the front shoulder facing the pitcher too early
- Front shoulder dives in toward the plate, cutting off vision and making the inside pitch especially difficult

Recommended Drills

- Knob-to-knee separation drill -- train the hands moving straight back with the knob pointed at the catcher's feet
- Point-the-bat-at-the-pitcher-then-load drill -- keep the front shoulder facing the pitcher through the load instead of diving into the plate for a shorter, more direct, and more powerful bat path

Note from Coach Broc

Sam, your natural power and ability to drive the ball the other way really stand out -- and for your age, your understanding of your swing and the game is ahead of the curve. The adjustments above are very workable, and with focused reps, you can shorten that path without losing what makes you dangerous. Thank you to the Wagner family for trusting LCB Training. We would love to keep training together -- please reach out anytime.

Between sessions, Sam can keep developing with The Next Level Playbook and the full LCB Training online platform -- video drills, workout programs, and coaching tools built to support his progress.
