Player Evaluation Report

"Work Hard. Be Memorable."

Noah Fellman | Northwest Travelers 12U White | September 23, 2026

Strengths

- Excellent, efficient contact hitter with a direct hands-to-ball path and no wasted movement
- Strong ability to drive the ball the other way
- Great attitude, athletic, and genuinely coachable with real insight into the game

Areas to Improve

- Wide base with a load that shifts weight past the back leg, leaking power outside the back knee instead of staying centered
- Handsy, off-balance finish, falling out toward third base rather than staying stacked
- Overly upright posture that leads to ground balls

Recommended Drills

- Step-back tee drill to train loading weight onto the inside of the back foot and leg
- Hold-your-finish drill checking for a stacked knee, shoulder, and head after every swing
- Step-over-the-plate cue, inspired by Pete Crow-Armstrong's swing, to train falling toward the plate rather than away from it
- Standing hinge drill for posture
- PVC pipe skip-and-swing drill to naturally find a stacked, balanced finish while still swinging hard

Note from Coach Broc

Noah has a lot to build on. His natural contact skills and coachability stand out, and with a few focused adjustments to his load, posture, and finish, he can turn hard ground balls into more consistent line drives. The areas noted above are very workable, and the recommended drills are a great starting point. Thank you to the Fellman family for trusting LCB Training with Noah's development -- we would love to keep training together and help him take the next step. Please reach out anytime.

Between sessions, Noah can keep developing with The Next Level Playbook and the full LCB Training online platform -- video drills, workout programs, and coaching tools built to support his progress.
